

A Guest Lecture on Strategic HR

The guest lecture which took place on 3rd August 2018 at the Human Resources Department was given by Mr. Nedumaran on the topic strategic HR. Being a very experienced person in various fields related to Human Resource Management, he spoke with vigor for around one and half hours. The lecture was informative, career building and totally new for the freshers.

Mr. Nedumaran interacting with the students

The students gained knowledge on human behavior at work and how HRM revolutionized into modern work places. It was not only informative but also had a few recess minutes which helped the students understand a new way of memorization. They were informed of the basic profile of a company and the role of a HR in that workplace.

On the whole, the lecture was new and useful in many ways. It was interactive between the students and the professor which made it more enjoyable. It helped students gain a lot of knowledge and eagerness for the next lecture.
